

Your baby might be more clingy now.

Around this week a 'stormy period' is most likely to occur.

Your baby is probably going through a comparatively uncomplicated phase.

Around this week it is most likely that your baby's sunny side will shine through.

Clingy and irritable behaviour at around 29 or 30 weeks is no telltale sign of another leap. The baby has simply discovered that his Mummy can walk away and leave him behind. Funny as it
